Strange announcement? - I dont think so!, it is real so I announce it. Yes I know normally I should announce this kind of news with something like: '#1 Position in 1 week!' - well sorry, but I am not that high yet, I think I will be by the nexts weeks though :). After 2 weeks of working on this site Godmarketing.com, yesterday we started seeing the site indexed and # 77 positioned in google, and today, as announced here, we are in position #44.

How we did? - I would like to list every step we did until today but I will prefer to describe every single step in separate articles, so you can interpret and apply them to your site as you see fit. However I give you a quick tip; you will need to keep your site as clean as you can in terms of design and graphics.

I strongly recommend not to use too much unnecessary graphics on your site and if possible not flash at all, I'll give some of my tips if you want to absolutely make use of some flash on your site.

Here I list some of the things to think when optimazing your site for search engines:

Cero submission to search engines, Page rank building, Appropriate design, Graphics naming and alt text, Good use of keywords, title and description of your website and other actions that I will describe later in upcoming articles.
