

Copywrite, No Matter Language, Do It Correctly

Contributed by Javier Yep Garcia
Tuesday, 15 January 2008

Do not do it like I do! :) - When you post on your own site and going to talk about your products and services, do it in the best way posible, and write with a very good and professional english (or the language you are writing with), WITHOUT ERRORS! It is really not good to have a website with plenty of grammar errors.

The only exception is this website, because english is not my 'mother's language' and because really I have no time to make a write-proof with all my posts :) I am a technical person and I write directly on the editor what I have in mind about my seo ideas and tips, that's why this is an exception.

In your site you should always make a write-proof in order to be credible to your visitors. A nice tool here for spell check.